

BOPF Information Sharing and Data Protection Policy

Introduction

This Information Sharing and Data Protection Policy describes how BOPF collects, uses and shares personal data when you become a BOPF Member or Supporter. Please read the following information carefully to understand our views and practices regarding your personal data and how we will treat it. By being a BOPF Member or Supporter you agree to BOPF using your data in accordance with the information outlined below. At the point of entry, you agree that all data you provide on behalf of yourself or an organisation is accurate to the best of your knowledge.

Purposes of Processing

What data do we collect?

BOPF collects the contact details, date of birth and equality data of older people over the age of 55 who live in Bristol and sign up to become BOPF Members. BOPF also collects contact details of supporting individuals who like to receive information about the work we do.

BOPF relies on users to say if the information is incorrect or out of date and if any alterations need to be made. If you do not want us to process your information and use it as detailed in this policy, you can ask us to remove or alter your details at any time, as described below.

What is personal data?

Some information we collect about you is personal data. As used in this Policy, "personal data" is as defined in the General Data Protection Regulation 2018 and any successor legislation. Personal data includes any information which we hold about you that identifies you as an individual. This includes your name, postal address, email address, telephone number and date of birth.

Why do we need your personal data?

We will only process your personal data in accordance with applicable data protection and privacy laws. We need certain personal data in order to send you our BOPF Newsletter and any further information about the work we and our partners undertake. If you become a member, you will be asked to give your consent and agree to provide this information to us. This consent provides us with the legal basis we require under the applicable laws to process your data. You maintain the right to withdraw such consent at any time. If you do not agree to our use of your personal data in line with this Policy, please do not become a Member or Supporter.

This information helps BOPF to:

- Send members our BOPF Newsletter
- Provide users with information about our Partnership work which includes the Bristol City Council.
- Provide our members with information about events including BOPF Open Forum meetings, BOPF Challenging Ageism Workshops, BOPF Meetup Mornings, Bristol city Council and other Consultations and events that which might be of interest.
- Analyse who our members and supporters are for monitoring and future planning purposes.

Collecting Your Personal Data

On providing us with your personal data, you will be asked to give your consent for us to retain your personal data in our database. You have the right to have your data removed and terminate your membership at any time. For removal of data please email: bopfadmin@ageukbristol.org.uk or call 0117 9279222.

- To send you administrative information regarding your membership;

- With your consent, to send you promotional emails about upcoming activities and other news, including information about products and services offered by us and our partners. You may opt-out of receiving such information at any time – such emails tell you how to “opt-out”;
- As we believe necessary or appropriate to comply with applicable laws, lawful requests and legal process, including to respond to requests from public and government authorities, to enforce our Policy, and to protect our rights, privacy, safety or property, and/or that of you or others;
- To analyse our impact and how well we are reaching our aims;
- As described in the “Sharing of your Personal Data” section below.

Sharing Your Personal Data

We may share your personal data as follows:

- We have to supply your name and postal address to our mailout company Bascom Ltd who post our BOPF newsletter to you.

Third Party Sites

Our Site and services may contain links to third-party websites and features. This Policy does not cover the privacy practices of such third parties. These third parties have their own privacy policies and we do not accept any responsibility or liability for their websites, features or policies. We recommend you read their privacy policies before submitting any data to them.

Location and accessibility of data

Information is stored on the secure servers of Age UK Bristol in the UK and the appropriate measures have been implemented to protect it from improper access, destruction, tampering and loss. Data held by BOPF is accessible to BOPF staff only. BOPF has an internal data protection policy which requires staff and contractors to not share information outside of BOPF unless required to do so by law.

Security

We seek to use reasonable organisational, technical and administrative measures to protect personal data within our organisation.

Data retention

In order to comply with the Charitable Incorporated Organisation regulations 2012 member's details must to be kept for 10 years after the person ceases to be a member. This includes the name, postal address, date of becoming a member and date of ceasing to be a member.

The mailout company Bascom Ltd we use to mail out BOPF Newsletters retains our members contact details for 6 months on secure servers after the mailout then deleted using the Gutmann standard.

Sensitive Personal Data

We sometimes carry out membership surveys in order to understand who our members are. Sensitive personal data collected in this way is kept anonymous (as it does not include the name or contact details) and it includes information related to racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religion beliefs, physical and mental health and sexual life.

Your RightsObject

You have the right to object to any processing of your data at any time.
